The Indian Journal of Crop Science

A Journal Serving the International Community of Crop Scientists

The Indian Journal of Crop Science is the official publication of Royal Society of Crop Science. The Journal publishes original research articles, short communications and reviews. The aim of the journal is to provide a forum for the crop research community in crop science, including plant breeding, genetics, cytology, molecular genetics, biotechnology, genetic resources, physiology, agronomy, horticulture, pathology, entomology, soil science, seed production technology, microbiology and biochemistry research and other cognate sciences of sufficient importance and of such a character as to be of primary interest to crop scientists. The journal focuses on new developments in crop science and their applications. The editorial policy of the editors and the editorial board is rapid publication. It is the aim of the publishers to have a manuscript published within six months after the manuscript has been received. The journal will be available in print, online and year-end CD-ROM format.
